

Forty Under 40 Nomination

Executive Summary for Angela L. Macke

Angela Macke of Ankeny, Iowa, is a true leader in every sense of the word, both in her professional and personal life. She is currently the Director of Financial Reporting for Dice Holdings, Inc., a $200 million public company with international operations, specializing in online recruitment and career management for select professional communities. During her seven years at Dice, Angie is known for “rolling up her sleeves” to get whatever job needs done in an efficient, productive and excellent manner. She has participated in nine acquisitions for Dice Holdings – the initial public offering in 2007, two secondary offerings, three debt refinancing projects, and the conversion of several key systems.

She possesses an impeccable work ethic and mentors her direct reports and others around her to excel in their roles within the organization. She is recognized by her peers and company executives as an individual with tremendous business acumen and a nearly flawless approach in working with internal and external clients. She is precise in her analytic and decision-making processes and delivers higher-than-expected results as demonstrated by her growth, expanded responsibilities and promotions at Deloitte & Touch and most recently at Dice Holdings, Inc.

Angie carries these qualities forward into her personal life as she is able to simultaneously handle with ease significant work responsibilities and her duties as a wife and mother to three young daughters. She also gives back to her community through her role as a volunteer board member with Employee and Family Resources, a member of United Way of Central Iowa's Education Leadership Initiative, and a member of St. Luke the Evangelist Catholic Church.
