2014 Business Record's 15th Annual 40 Under 40 Awards
100 4th Street,
Des Moines, IA 50309

Dear Awards Committee Members:

It is a great pleasure for me to write this letter in support of Ms. Collin Barnes' nomination to the 40 Under 40 Awards for 2014. I have known Ms. Barnes since her undergraduate days (2001-2006) at Iowa State University. We stayed in touch during her employment with Dekker/Perich/Sabatini with headquarters in Albuquerque, New Mexico and now with RDG Planning & Design in Des Moines, IA where she is the Corporate Focus Market Leader as an Interior Designer. Currently, she is serving on the Interior Design Advisory Council in our College of Design at ISU.

Ms. Barnes was a stellar student and she continued to be an exceptional designer, one who serves not only her field but community as well. She serves her profession selflessly: She is on the Board of Directors of IIDA as the VP of Student Affairs and as a Professional Member and she has been a National Member of the US Green Building Council since 2008 among her many services.

Collin Barnes is a rising star who has been recognized with prestigious awards among which are Interior Design Excellence Award for Sustainable Environments and Distinction for Corporate Identity. Her resume speaks to her high achievements and extraordinary services.

Ms. Barnes was invited by the Interior Design Department to serve on its Advisory Council. This is an honor bestowed by the department to individuals who are accomplished and are outstanding leaders in their fields to advise the faculty and the students on the current design issues, which would impact the curriculum of the student designers. Interior Design faculty has been enjoying the invaluable input, astute observations and most welcomed recommendation from Collin Barnes. It is, especially, for this reason that I feel Collin Barnes, as young accomplished designer, is most worthy of the Award 40 Under 40.

I recommend her highly!

Sincerely,

Dear Collin,

It is with great pleasure and honor that I write this letter of recommendation in support of your nomination for the Business Record's 2014 Class of Forty under 40 Award.

Our paths crossed in early 2009 when I met you and your husband Josh at an informational session for first-time home buyers. I was instantly struck by your long-range goals as per your real estate plan of action...very impressive for young professionals just getting started! In addition, you had a very specific price point and specific criteria for the property...or should I say the "project" you were seeking?!? We did indeed find you a definite "project"!

True to your word and as you'd planned, just a few months before your three year purchase anniversary, you contacted me to tour your home, talk about listing your current property and purchasing the next property as per your long-range real estate plan of action.

Again, I was struck by your commitment to your plan and your commitment to enlist my services again just as you'd promised. Your true transparency and your genuine authenticity are just two of your many admirable traits which set you apart from the fray. When you speak, people can trust that your word means something.

Honestly, I was apprehensive as I began my way to your home. What could possibly have transpired in less than three years on such a tight reno/rehab budget and with such a huge "project"? Much to my surprise and delight, wonders had been worked! Actually, it was nothing short of a miracle...a real showstopper! Collin, I will never again doubt your commitment, passion and amazing talent!

In the purchase of your next property, we'd both grown deeper in our commitment and adherence to the application of Maslow's Hierarchy as it relates to physical structures; the impact on the inhabitants, the environment, the local economy and that of the greater good. Your understanding and dedication to this practice extends professionally in your obtaining the rigorous certification of and to the work you are doing as a LEED AP. As in your own home, the structures on which you work; many of which are community schools, follow the high performance hierarchy of attention to health and safety, structural, mechanical, energy-efficiency and last; but certainly not least, comfort and livability. You heal buildings for some of our most vulnerable citizens. As a mother, grandmother and former educator, please accept my sincere and heartfelt gratitude for the work you do for so many. You make a difference.

Collin, your dedication to mindfulness, doing the right thing and going above and beyond for both your own family and for our global family is what makes you the perfect candidate and recipient of Forty under 40. You are an absolute inspiration!

Warmest regards,

Re: Recommendation for Collin Barnes

It is a pleasure to be called upon as a reference for Collin Barnes. I am a principal with the architectural design firm of Dekker/Perich/Sabatini in Albuquerque, NM and I have known Collin since January of 2005 when she began working for our firm as an interior design intern. She was with our firm for over three years and for a portion of that time she worked directly under my supervision in a conceptual design team where I was able to assess her capabilities and passion for the architectural profession – of which she has an abundance of both.

I have an extremely high regard for Ms. Barnes' talent and ambition but what impresses me most about her are the following qualities:

- Leadership: Collin is a natural leader. She has a style of leadership that results from core competence and a respectful, professional approach. People naturally respond in a positive fashion around her. Collin and I attended a recruiting trip to Iowa State University several years ago and I was struck by her ability to connect with others in a sincere, meaningful manner. She did this with grace and humor.
- Sense of Community: Collin is involved in her community. She sees her profession as both her life's work and an opportunity to make a difference in the community.
- Professionalism and Work Ethic: Collin is a delight to work with. She is personable, professional, and represents herself, her company, and her community in the best possible manner. I've always admired Collin's ability to grasp new information and translate that into meaningful solutions. She is focused and goal oriented in such a way that gets the most out of her own abilities and brings out the best in those she works with.

Collin has consolidated her experience to provide a strong foundation for her career, focused her interests in a meaningful way, and used her professional position to strengthen her community involvement.

I enthusiastically endorse Collin Barnes for the recognition for which she is being considered. She represents the best qualities that we all aspire towards.

Sincerely,

To Whom It May Concern

Re: Business Record Forty Under 40 Candidate

Dear Sir or Madam,

It is with great respect that I am writing this letter of recommendation for Collin Barnes. As the current President of the Great Plains Chapter of the International Interior Design Association, I have the pleasure to personally work with Collin as she holds a position on my 2013/2014 Great Plains Board of Directors as our Vice President of Student Affairs. The Great Plains Chapter of IIDA is comprised of 3 City Centers and 5 Campus Centers throughout Iowa and Nebraska, and is made up of 136 Professional, Industry, and Associate members, and 74 Students.

Collin is responsible for leadership and organization of events and programs at all Student Campus Centers throughout the Chapter. These duties include recommendation and supervision of a Student Liaison at each Student Campus Center in which she provides monthly reports to the Chapter Board of Directors. She is responsible for communications and assistance to each of them as well.

Collin has been an active member of our organization since 2008, serving as an Associate member while gaining work experience and a Professional member since 2012. She has also served on the Committee at the Des Moines City Center level as the Communications Chair from 2010-2012.

Collin's passion for education has been evident since her first year of Undergraduate school at Iowa State University, where she became a member of the Interior Design Student Association, and remained actively involved throughout her tenure at Iowa State. She now serves on the Advisory Council for the Iowa State College of Interior Design.

While only on the Board since August of 2013, Collin has shown excellent leadership skills as she has personally attracted several new Student Members to our organization. She volunteers and manages her time with us while also belonging to the USGBC and COSC (Center on Sustainable Communities). She also volunteers for Wildwood Hills Ranch, which is a non-profit organization in Madison County that offers a free summer camp program to at-risk youth. She works with kids to foster leadership, teamwork, and build character.

The contributions Collin has made to IIDA along with her integrity, drive, and passion to service her community makes her an excellent candidate for the Forty Under 40 Award.

If you have any additional questions, I can be reached at the following email address: jgeorgesen@momttx.com.

Dear Business Record Forty Under 40 Review Team,

I am writing a letter of recommendation for Ms. Collin Barnes of RDG Planning & Design.

As a member of The Plaza Homeowners Association Board, I have become professionally acquainted with Collin after requesting RFPs from three different architectural firms for improvements to our 25-floor high rise in downtown Des Moines. RDG was awarded the project with Collin serving as the lead contact.

Throughout the process, I have been impressed with her presentation skills, sense of design and leadership skills. And she does it all with a style and class. It takes special talents to deal with multiple owners with multiple expectations and guide them through to a unified plan. Her professionalism is beyond her years and I can tell that she sincerely cares about her clients and their goals.

We all like to see young people like Collin choose Iowa and thrive in Des Moines. She has served our city well and I recommend her for this honor.

Sincerely,

Des Moines, Iowa 50309

Dear 40 Under Forty Nominating Committee,

I wish to nominate RDG Planning & Design interior designer Collin R. Barnes for the 2014 Forty Under 40 Award. We are fortunate such a talented interior designer chooses to work and live in metro Des Moines. Interior designers work hand-in-glove with architects to create the desired feel to any structure, any room. Collin Barnes has the rare ability to create a look that is right, every time -- she puts the sizzle in the steak in physical design. Her reputation is spreading beyond our state and region. At a young age she has either led projects or played a significant role in important projects in Texas, New Mexico, Nebraska, Nevada, Minnesota, and Iowa.

Collin has an innovative mind and is adept at problem solving for clients. When she leads a project she considers sustainability—going beyond the immediately visually attractive to what will last and be environmentally friendly. She is a dedicated young professional who is starting a family and helping to shape Des Moines to be the place to live, work and play for today and well into tomorrow. I know her work best because she designed the American Institute of Architects (AIA—Iowa) office in Capital Square. For nearly two years I had the pleasure of working in a functional and aesthetically beautiful office that she created from concept to completion.

Please consider Collin R. Barnes for membership in the 2014 Forty Under 40 class.

Sincerely,

Re: Forty Under 40 – Recommendation of Collin Barnes

Dear Selection Committee:

We are writing to recommend Collin Barnes for inclusion in in this year's Des Moines Business Record Forty Under 40. We met Collin in early 2011, when we hired RDG Planning & Design to assist us with office location and space planning for our new law firm, Weinhardt & Logan. Collin was an indispensable member of the RDG team on our projects and clearly evinced to us the level of professional and career success required for the Forty Under 40 distinction.

Having at that time practiced law in Des Moines for 20 and 10 years at the established firm of BelinMcCormick, we were neophytes to the world of law firm location and design. After looking at several office spaces downtown and not finding something well-suited to our needs within our relatively short time frame, Collin first helped us locate temporary office space and get our firm up and running in the most pragmatic way. Approximately 18 months later, Collin began helping us find a permanent location and design our office within that location.

Over the last three years of working closely with Collin, we have admired many of her professional attributes. She is a natural leader with a magnetic personality. Perhaps even more important in the design business she's in, Collin is a great listener. She listened to the way we like to work as a five-person boutique litigation firm and designed a space that looks nothing like we expected when we first began to look for office space. (We love it, however.) For all of these reasons we believe Collin Barnes should be a member of this year's Forty Under 40 class. If you have any questions or would like to discuss this, please call either of us.

Yours truly,

Re: Nomination of Collin Barnes for Forty Under 40

Dear Forty Under 40 Committee,

I write to you today to recommend Collin Barnes for the Business Record's Forty Under 40 Class. I have known Collin for over 5 years in various capacities. Collin has been involved in many community groups, volunteer opportunities and served on several boards. Collin is a thoughtful, experienced, and qualified leader who deserves formal recognition.

As a member of United States Green Building Council (USGBC), Center on Sustainable Communities (COSC), and Young Professionals Connection (YPC) Collin has really made an impact on her community. She works to extend the values of these organizations into her work as a Professional Interior Designer. Collin has participated in the design of four (4) LEED Platinum Certified projects – including the Wellmark Corporate Headquarters facility and the AIA Iowa office, both located in Downtown Des Moines.

In addition to Collin's previous mentioned community roles, she also serves as the current Vice President of Student Affairs for International Interior Design Association (IIDA), Great Plains Chapter Board of Directors. As the VP of Student Affairs of this group, she has worked to launch a Student Advocacy Program for IIDA Student Members. This chapter-wide program pairs students and industry professionals in a social setting to foster mentoring and leadership for members of all ages. Students have the benefit of getting to know industry professionals; receiving advice on projects, resumes, and portfolios; refining their interview skills; and the convenience of having at least one familiar face when attending IIDA networking events. The program aims to better prepare students for the rigor of the interior design profession while promoting leadership and involvement in the organization.

Finally, Collin volunteers her time at Wildwood Hills Ranch, a non-profit organization in Madison County. Along with her family, she is very passionate about the mission of this organization. The Ranch offers free summer camp and year round retreats to at-risk youth, working to foster leadership, encourage teamwork and build character.

Collin has proven she is vested in her community, boards and volunteer commitments. She has balanced her career, volunteerism and family responsibilities and made a lasting impression on me and many other individuals. She is involved, dedicated, and making a difference to those around her. Collin's outstanding qualities make her a worthy and deserving candidate for this year's Business Records Forty Under 40 class.

Forty Under 40 Panel,

I am writing to recommend Collin R. Barnes for the 2014 Forty Under 40 program. I believe that Collin's career achievements and community involvement make her an outstanding candidate for this award.

As you can see from her resume, Ms. Barnes has a great deal of professional experience in Central Iowa and across the State. I had the privilege to work with Collin in 2009 during the remodel of our office located in Capital Square. Collin represented herself and her firm with a great deal of professionalism. She showed great mindfulness for our how staff used their current office and took that into consideration when designing the new space. Her involvement in our office lives on as office staff evolves and changes take place. She is always quick to respond when we need her assistance.

Collin also has a great deal of involvement within the community. She has been and remains to be involved in many Iowa associations including the Center on Sustainable Communities, the Young Professionals Connection of Great Des Moines, the United States Green Building Council, and the International Interior Design Association.

Collin is an excellent candidate for this award. I am certain you will find Collin's credentials and experience included in her resume and application will support this nomination.

In spite of her achievements, Collin is a humble and very approachable person who loves to share her knowledge to help others. Collin is truly a leader within RDG Planning & Design.

There is much more to Collin than her professional achievements. She gives back to her community in a number of ways, including her membership in civic organizations as well serving as a board member for Great Plains Chapter of IIDA and Iowa State University's Interior Design Advisory Council. Collin and her family are passionately involved in volunteering for Wildwood Hills Ranch, an organization which provides a free summer camp program focusing on leadership, team work and character building for at-risk youth.

Dear Mr. Swanson:

I am honored to give my whole-hearted recommendation for Collin Barnes' application to the Des Moines Business Record's 2014 class of 40 under 40. I've known Collin personally for several years and have enjoyed watching her become the extraordinary professional she is today.

Recently, I had the opportunity to work with Collin on a professional level in her role as project lead for RDG on the Central Campus Downtown School remodel. I was serving on the school's PTA board during the relocation from its long-term home in the Keck Building to its new space at Central Campus.

With many different perspectives and "audiences" to consider - from the school's youngest students, to teachers, to parents, just to name a few - Collin expertly managed the design process. Ultimately, she created a kid-friendly space that is bright and happy, and most importantly, perfectly conducive to the kind of project-based, collaborative learning foundation on which the Downtown School is built.

In every endeavor Collin embarks on, she gives 110 percent, whether it's in her role as professional, daughter, mother or friend. She would make a great addition to the 2014 40 under 40 class, and I'm pleased to offer her my enthusiastic support.

To the selection committee for 2014 Forty Under 40:

I am pleased to recommend Collin Barnes to the Business Record's Forty Under 40. I have known Collin personally for many years. Throughout all the years I have known her, she has demonstrated herself as a leader and become a respected professional in her field.

Collin's current position with RDG Planning & Design is Interior Designer and Corporate Focus Market Leader. Check her resume for her list of many impressive projects. She is responsible for implementing and communicating marketing strategies to attract clients, build relationships and meet established market goals; conducting market and client research; identifying growth opportunities for market; preparing annual market revenue projections and business development plan; and creating marketing collateral for external communications/public relations in order to build market and firm name recognition. She is a licensed interior designer and also certified by the National Council for Interior Design. She has excelled in this field as demonstrated by her LEED® accreditation in interior design and construction, and her memberships in the US Green Building Council and Center on Sustainable Communities.

Further, she is also active in local design associations. She is on the local board of the International Interior Design Association (Great Plains Chapter) as vice president of student affairs and has recently been named to the Interior Design Advisory Council for Iowa State University.

I enjoyed seeing her creative talent in the home that she and her husband gutted and completely rebuilt and redesigned. I could see how her clients are the beneficiaries of that imaginative eye.

Collin is a supporter and fan of the Des Moines community. She is an active member of the Young Professionals Connection of Greater Des Moines and a volunteer with Wildwood Hills Ranch.

She would be a fabulous addition to your Forty Under 40 class for 2014. Collin is a creative talent that has excelled in the field of commercial interior design. She will continue to appear on "lists" in the future because she continues to grow as a leader in her profession and our community. She is intelligent, energetic, reliable, and always smiling.

Sincerely,

To whom it may concern:

I have known Collin Barns for four (4) years. I met Collin when we were working as freelance Visual assistants for The GAP. I had recently relocated to Iowa from New York where I worked as an Interior Designer and Stylist for 19 years; we instantly found a shared language and common ground through our mutual love of art and design.

Ever since our first meeting I have been impressed with Collin. She has immense talent, is dedicated to her craft and possesses an impeccable aesthetic. But beyond her many gifts as a designer, I have found her to be- humble, intelligent, grounded, dependable, and conscientious. She leads by example with a strong character and equally strong work ethic. As a fellow professional, I have had the opportunity of working with many people over my career, and I can say without question, that Collin is a tremendous asset to any company or organization she is a part of.

It is with pleasure and complete assuredness that I give Collin my highest recommendation. She is truly an incredible woman, mother & designer.

I am happy to provide further information if required.
